My Darling Chick.

There is a scheme up for the Cap & I to walk over to Clyde tomorrow morning, before it gets hot, so although it is after ten P.M. I must write you a line before I go to bed. I had a good time yesterday at the fair, but missed you sadly, & came to the conclusion that I did not want to go again without you, though I probably shall. Carrie is at Clyde & I want to see her.
I have been down to Harlem the last two evenings hunting was her room, & I think I have got it fixed at last. Miss Hays was here to dinner to-night & behaved faithfully with Leo, but he held out successfully. He & Fred & Lesley are talking of going to Delaware next Monday, & Grandma & Aunt Emma to Lake Placid Friday week, the 28th. The Hemmings-ways can't go. Science is practically faithfully, & improving fast.

I believe Jack is coming out tomorrow. But that goes in the afternoon. & The washerwoman comes Thursday. That is all the news there is. Ed & Willoughby were here all the evening.
Grandma is positively angelic today, a reaction from yesterday when I suppose she was affected by the sudden change in the weather. I miss you very much, & shall be very glad to see you home but stay as long as you enjoy yourself, & tell the boys we shall be glad to see them on your return.
You don't mention Mrs. Lesley how is she? I had a bout of machine sewing this morning sheets & I know my back is recalling the circumstances so good night. (Don't wear any thing decent in the woods.

Laska is so good, but nearly broke his heart again over Sizzie on Sunday. Papa says he won't you go to day, so you won't be many days without a letter.

How I want to see every body, I should like to go over to see Papa but the way does not look clear.

Love as ever from Mother.
